SAYS SITUATION GRAVE

Declares Country's on 'Time
Schedule' in Talk Before
Senate Committee.(By International News Service)
WASHINGTON — Declaring that the national interest has now been in peril for the past two months, Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, today asked congress to authorize a draft army of unlimited size.

Appearing before the senate military affairs committee in support of legislation to extend the service of draftees, national guardsmen and reservists beyond the year for which they were originally called, the general hinted at the possibility of America being attacked by a foreign foe, but denied the war department is considering the formation of a second A. E. F.

Gen. Marshall grimly warned of potential danger to the country. "The situation is grave," he said. "We are on a time schedule. We have seen nation after nation go down by negative action until the guns have been turned on them."

"It is not in the public interest to state all we know. It might produce something like the sinking of the Maine in the Spanish-American war or the Zimmerman note (in the World War), and we must not do that."

"In denying that he sought to create a second A. E. F. when he asked for removal of legal restrictions against sending draftees and guardsmen beyond the western hemisphere, Gen. Marshall said his report to the secretary of war had been misinterpreted.

"The reaction of the press, which has a great influence on the public," he said, "gave the point of view that I was talking about an A. E. F., which was absurd."

"It is merely a question of readiness for service. I was not thinking of an A. E. F., inferentially or otherwise."

Employees of the Ohio Brass company today were back at work following a one-day "work holiday" called yesterday by local 758, United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (CIO) following a meeting last night at which union officials were empowered to call a strike at any time, by vote of the union members.

The "holiday" was declared yesterday in protest against the discharge last week of Joseph Sferro, a foundry worker, Dick Niebur, UE field representative of the CIO stated.

At a meeting of union members last night, Niebur said that a strike vote was taken and unanimously approved by the approximately 200 members present. Union officials can call (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Prince Fumimaro Konoye

Yosuke Matsuoka

Yesterday aristocratic Prince Fumimaro Konoye resigned with his entire cabinet, including Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, in a move that observers said presaged a sharp change in Japanese policy. The move was followed today by revelation that Tokyo had ordered full mobilization of the Japanese army for possible moves either against Russia or Indo-China. Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japan's ambassador to Britain was immediately rumored as Konoye's successor after the resignations. But Emperor Hirohito today commanded Konoye to form a new cabinet, expected to be strongly pro-Nazi.

News-Journal to Carry Full List
Of Draft Numbers

Tomorrow's edition of The News-Journal will carry the order numbers of all Richland county draftees in the second call, along with their names, covering all three draft boards in the county.

The list will be based on the serial numbers issued to the men by their boards.

Since No. 3 board, with the largest registration, has only 177 registrants, and 800 capsules will be drawn in Washington tonight, all numbers above 177 will be eliminated in The News-Journal list, since they will not apply here.

Subsequent registrations by transfer may change somewhat the order in which men are called, but the change will not be great.

The luck of the draw in the nation's second peace-time conscription lottery will determine tonight the order in which 494 men 21 years of age in Richland county will be called for military service.

Secretary of Navy Frank Knox in Washington will draw the first capsule from the "goldfish" bowl that was used in the World War and first peace-time lotteries.

Eight hundred capsules, which have been under heavy guard since the order numbers were placed in them, will be drawn at the inter-departmental auditorium, starting at 7 p. m.

The Richland county group to be classified tonight includes 167 from draft board No. 1, 150 from draft board No. 2, and 177 from draft board No. 3.

Crash East of City.

Milo W. Thompson, 30, Ashland, was bound over to the Richland county grand jury on a $2,000 bond today after waiving examination and pleading not guilty before Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch to charges of second degree manslaughter filed by the state highway patrol in connection with the death of 13-year-old Marion Richard Pryor.

The Pryor boy was fatally injured Tuesday afternoon when struck by Thompson's car as he was walking on U. S. route 42, east of Mansfield, toward his home in Lincoln Heights.

The affidavit, signed by Highway Patrolman D. H. Cole, charged Thompson with the unsafe operation of a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor and further charged Thompson with "unlawfully and unintentionally" killing the Pryor boy.

"There is no question, in this case, that the accident could have been avoided," Prosecutor Harold Lutz commented today. "had the driver not been drinking and had he had his car under control."

The prosecutor further said "there was no excuse for a motorist hitting a pedestrian walking along the highway as wide as route 42," and added that he had definitely established the fact that "Thompson had altogether too much to drink."

Thompson's case will be the fourth to go before the grand jury as the result of fatal traffic accidents in Mansfield and Richland county in the past 10 days.

Association's Stand.

Richland county farmers stood united today in a widespread move to protest the government's right to limit the sale or use of wheat in excess to quotas set under the Agricultural Adjustment administration as a new series of turns brought the heated grain-growing controversy in to the national spotlight.

The situation today was this: 1. Richland farmers had set up an organization to join forces with the Farmers' Protective association in an organized move to battle the restrictions.

2. A leader of the Protective association in Dayton threatened a strike by farmers "to starve out the nation" if wheat marketing quotas are not lifted by the government.

3. Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard advised grain growers that penalties for exceeding AAA quotas must and will stand.

4. Congressman J. Harry McGregor in Washington urged support (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Post at Fort Hayes.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Lieut. Gen. Daniel Van Voorhis, former commander of the fifth corps area at Fort Hayes, will return to his old position from his present assignment at the Panama Canal Zone.

The shift of assignment was one of 12 major changes in command announced yesterday by the war department in Washington. Gen. Van Voorhis will succeed Maj. Gen. Clement A. Trotter, who will be retired under statutory age requirements Oct. 1.

The 62-year-old general went to the Panama Canal command in 1939 after heading the fifth corps area for less than a year. He is a native of Zanesville, where he owns a farm, and a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan.

Lindbergh Writes Roosevelt

NEW YORK — Charles A. Saying that he wrote as an American citizen, Lindbergh, who recently resigned as colonel in the air corps reserve, wrote:

Report Smolensk Captured as Advance
Troops Strike Within 110 Miles
Of Moscow; RAF Strikes Sharp
Blow at Axis Shipping.(By Associated Press)
Adolf Hitler's high command declared that 9,000-000 troops were locked in a "tremendous struggle for a decision" on the eastern front today and that the Russians had thrown their last reserves into the 26-day-old conflict in an attempt to stem the Nazi Blitzkrieg.

DNB, the official German news agency, reported that Hitler's invasion forces, storming through the Stalin line, had captured Smolensk, 230 miles west of Moscow, and a Berlin spokesman indicated that German "Schnell-Truppen" (speed troops) had raced ahead to within 110 miles of the Soviet capital.

"Great successes are in the making," Hitler's field quarters proclaimed, casting off its reticent mood of the past week.

The German radio, heard in London, reported the capture of Polotsk, on the central front, northwest of Vitebsk, where the main German breakthrough apparently was made.

A Moscow communique acknowledged violent all-night fighting in which German and Russian troops contended for mastery of the road to Leningrad.

The battle raged in the Pskov-Porkhov sector, 150 miles southwest of Leningrad. Details were lacking.

"In other sectors, no major operations took place and no significant changes in the positions of our troops occurred," the Soviet high command declared.

But on the all-important central front, guarding Moscow, a critical hour had struck.

The Russians officially conceded that tank-led Nazi legions had broken through to the vicinity of Smolensk, key railway town about halfway along the Minsk-to-Moscow motor highway, but they made no mention of the fall of the town.

The Germans asserted that protracted rearguard resistance by Red army troops in the Smolensk sector had been crushed, and that the Nazi advance eastward was continuing swiftly.

On the southern end of the 2,000-mile battlefield, the Germans also reported the capture of Kishinev, capital of Bessarabia.

On the English channel front, RAF warplanes were reported to have struck a heavy blow at Axis shipping with 17 vessels totalling 90,000 to 100,000 tons "put out of action" and five others of 40,000 to 45,000 tons badly damaged in the port of German-held Rotterdam, the Netherlands.

War Department Puts OK on
'Yoo-hoo' Penalty March.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson said today that the war department supported the disciplinary action meted out by Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear to 350 soldiers who yoo-hoed at shorts-clad girls on a Memphis, Tenn., golf course.

Patterson told a press conference that the matter was closed as far as the war department was concerned. Lear, he said, submitted a full report which will not be made public.

on why he ordered members of the 10th quartermaster battalion to march 15 miles as a disciplinary measure.

"We always support our generals," he added. "Where would we be otherwise? We have matters of far more pressing importance in the war department than that."

All but 10,000 gallons had been pumped from the tank before it burst into flames and collapsed after the wood framework had smoldered for several hours. The tank was struck by lightning Tuesday morning and the resultant fire raged nearly 18 hours.

9 MILLION IN GIANT STRUGGLE ON RED FRONT

Germans Claim Soviets Use Last Reserves, Report Smolensk Capture.

Without saying how the battle was going, the Soviet communiqué said very severe fighting also took place on the road to Leningrad and Kiev, but fixed Pskov and Novograd-Volynski as the vicinity of the battles. These are the same areas previously mentioned as the center of operations 130 miles from Leningrad and 130 miles from Kiev.

The Soviet command reported one victory, declaring that on the front south of Smolensk, the Germans had been swept back in a headlong retreat and an entire tank battalion destroyed in the process.

Bobruisk again was mentioned as the area of battle here, indicating the Germans had been pushed back 30 miles or more from their Dnieper bridgehead at Rogachev and Zhitobin by the Soviet counter offensive.

Vast confusion was reported in the Russian rear by Berlin as a result of constant bombings of railways and communications. Some Berlin estimates said 75 per cent of the Soviet air force had been destroyed.

But the Soviet command said its planes still were doing great damage to German tanks and troops at river crossings, and reported new raids on Rumanian towns. Travellers reaching Turkey said harbor works at Constantia have been destroyed and extensive damage done Rumanian oil fields by these raids.

Signs that Germany has her eyes far ahead of current developments were seen in reports from Ankara that the Nazis are asking for transit privileges to rush supplies across Turkey to the Caucasus and if when German troops reach there. The report indicated the Germans were concerned with the prospect of forming a new front against the British in Iraq and Iran.

London political observers said renewal of house of commons debate on British production, which Prime Minister Churchill has promised, may result in dividing the vast powers lodged in his hands.

Lord Beaverbrook, powerful newspaper publisher who was minister of aircraft production, is one likely choice to succeed Churchill should the latter unexpectedly go out in a government crisis, London dispatches said.

Claim Capture of Kiev Bunkers

BERLIN—(UP)—The official news agency DNB reported today that German infantry detachments have captured "the last bunkers built in depth in the battle area around Kiev." The capture was said to have occurred yesterday.

Nazis See Major Successes Soon

BERLIN—(UP)—Announcing the capture of strategic Smolensk on the road to Moscow, the German high command claimed today that major successes are shaping up for the Germans.

Coincident with capture of Smolensk, military headquarters announced that the vital fortress of Polotsk had fallen, with thousands of prisoners and vast quantities of war materials taken.

RAF Sinks 22 Ships In Rotterdam Attack

LONDON—(UP)—The Royal Air Force was revealed today to have carried out its greatest daylight attack on Rotterdam since the start of the war, sinking or damaging 22 ships—totaling 140,000 to 145,000—tons in the Dutch harbor.

The terrific assault was carried out by two squadrons of British bombers which flew in over the Dutch city almost at rooftop altitude and drew wild cheers from the Rotterdam populace as they swung over their objectives in a "V" formation—symbol of the British victory propaganda campaign.

The attack on Rotterdam was only one phase of the ever widening British air offensive against the continent.

Another 13,000 tons of enemy shipping was attacked in raids over the English channel, off the west coast of France and the coast of Norway.

Following up the daylight offensive British planes roared over Germany for a night attack on Hamburg that lasted until the early hours of this morning, but bad weather prevented the British pilots from observing the full effects of their bombing.

(The German high command claimed that nine British planes were shot down in attacks over Holland yesterday.)

Two Americans Are Released in Trade

BERLIN—(UP)—Richard C. Hotel, American correspondent, and Frank Nelson and Ivan Jacobson, employees of the former United States consulate at Oslo, Norway, started by train for Lisbon today after having been released from imprisonment in a trade for four Germans arrested in the United States.

DETROIT—(UP)—A strike by 350 members of the Steel Workers' organizing committee (CIO) closed the Great Lakes Engineering works today and halted construction of three freighters.

port for a bill that would permit farmers to feed their poultry and livestock wheat raised this year in excess of the marketing quotas.

More than 200 farmers met at the courthouse last night and set up a temporary organization for the purpose of establishing a branch of the Farmers Protective association in Richland county.

Albert Ammeter, Madison township was named temporary chairman, and W. L. Griebing, secretary-treasurer, during the two-hour session.

Named on the organizing committee, which will endeavor to enroll approximately 700 farmers in the county are Lee Shafer, Christ Reining, Earl Logan, and W. A. Priebe, all of Washington township; Walter Haner, and E. S. Nail of Mansfield.

The group which expects to meet again next week, will apply for membership in the Protective association, Ammeter said.

Farmers in two neighboring counties will meet later this week for the purpose of joining the protest move.

A meeting of Crawford county farmers has been scheduled for Friday night at Sulphur Springs school. Morrow county farmers will meet Saturday evening at Leveing hall in Mt. Gilead.

Meanwhile, former state senator and president of the state organization, I. E. Baker, Dayton, said that his organization would "strike and starve out the nation" if the government won two suits on file in Montgomery county challenging validity of the marketing quotas.

"We will refuse to sell and refuse to raise the crops that feed the nation," Baker asserted before a meeting of farmers last night at Germantown, the industries of the nation have gone on strike to protect rights less vital than those at stake in this fight."

Suits contesting the right of the AAA to fix quotas and penalize excess wheat at 49 cents a bushel were filed in federal court Monday by two southwestern Ohio farmers.

Meanwhile Louis Bromfield, Richland county novelist and farmer today said he was active in the formation of the Richland county farmers, but added he was not in sympathy with any "farmer strike."

"Our group was formed spontaneously," he said, "to protest the quota. I doubt if any strike movement would be given serious consideration anywhere."

Secretary Wickard answering a telegram from Rep. Frederick C. Smith of Marion said:

"If farmers are to continue to receive loans they must restrict the marketing of wheat.

"Otherwise the government's investment in commodity loans would be unprotected.

"Without penalties that restrict excessive marketing, the loan program would have to be abandoned. Without loan support the markets would undoubtedly collapse."

McGregor introduced his measure to "compensate" farmers for the "unfair" penalty of 49 cents per bushel imposed on wheat raised in excess of quotas. He said such a move would bring the farmer "some small semblance of aid."

Hotel, a member of the United Press Berlin staff, was arrested March 13 "on suspicion of espionage" for the German command. He had been held incommunicado ever since the secret police, except for one visit by an American consular attaché March 20.

Allen was arrested when he crossed into occupied France.

Nelson and Jacobson had been held for months on charges of activities inimical to the Nazis. They were released following the signing of the United States Naval Transport West Point with Manfred Zapp and Guenther Tonn, agents for the German Trans-Ocean News Service, Kurt Rieth, German diplomat and Eugene Buerr, German national, who had been released from United States custody.

Making one of their daring daylight raids with which they are constantly pounding Germany and occupied France, RAF fliers scored direct hits with heavy bombs upon the power station at Pont-a-Vendin, France, shown smoldering in dense smoke. ORDERS FULL MOBILIZATION

Japs Expected To Swell Army By Million as Emperor Asks New Cabinet.

(Tokyo newspapers announced that a school throughout Japan would remain open for an additional two weeks in order to relieve "over-burdened transportation facilities." It was pointed out that this would keep students off trains—and, it followed, make room for soldiers and munitions.)

Authoritative reports from Tokyo said the resignation of the cabinet yesterday was due to the combined pressure of German officials in Japan and pro-Axis Japanese.

It did not follow, it was said, that the new cabinet would be primarily a pro-German one.

According to these advices, the German pressure was exerted to insure a new cabinet which would be anti-American, and would mobilize the United States fleet and divert American attention from Europe.

These advices said Germany did not desire Japan to intervene against Russia at the moment because that would occupy Japan completely and lessen its value to the Axis.

It had been reported all week that the fall of the cabinet was imminent. There had been reports also of mobilizations and transfers of big units on the continent.

Usually well informed sources here expressed strong belief that for the moment Japan was concentrating on a move southward in an attempt to gain increased domination over French Indo-China and possibly Thailand, and especially to get control of the great Camranh naval base of Indo-China.

Meanwhile Emperor Hirohito today had instructed Prince Fumimaro Konoye to form a new cabinet to succeed the one which, under his leadership as premier, resigned yesterday.

Senior statesmen, including former premiers, had met for one hour early this afternoon, and the chairmanship of Marquis Koki Kido, lord keeper of the privy seals, to choose a new premier whose name would be submitted to the emperor.

Konoye Confers With Jap Leaders

TOKYO—(UP)—Prince Fumimaro Konoye today received the emperor's command to form a new cabinet to replace that which resigned last night to give way to one more capable of grappling with the "ever-changing world situation."

Konoye, who also headed the retiring cabinet, began assembling a new list of ministers, and authoritative sources said it was expected Emperor Hirohito would be able to install a new government tomorrow.

Among Konoye's first consultations was one with Baron Kichiro Hirayama, the strongly nationalist home minister in the outgoing cabinet. Observers believed this to indicate that Hirayama would remain in office, continuing the totalitarian domestic program on which the old government embarked.

For an indication of the direction of the new government's foreign policy observers awaited the choice of a new foreign minister.

Tonight the Premier-designate received General Eiki Tojo and Admiral Kichiro Oikawa, respectively, in the old cabinet. This was taken to mean that Tojo was asked to continue at their posts, thus assuring that the government's relations with the armed services, which have exercised powerful influence on all its policies, would be unchanged.

Interest centered chiefly around the appointment of a successor to Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsukawa, who was instrumental in aligning Japan with the Axis under the Berlin treaty of Sept. 27, 1940, and who personally signed a neutrality pact with Soviet Russia last April 13 at Moscow.

of the organization although their attendance at the conference will depend on the pressure of affairs in Washington.

Others in the organization expected to attend the Malabar luncheon are Gov. Bricker, Chase, Paul Sears, Oberlin college professor and author of "Deserts of the March," Brice Browning, head of the Muskingum conservancy; H. C. Ramsower, head of the extension department, Ohio State university; Grove Patterson, Toledo newspaper editor; Robert N. Wilkin, federal judge of Cleveland, and "Ding" Darling, cartoonist.

Friday's program in Columbus opens with a morning executive meeting followed by a luncheon at which either the prime minister of Canada or the Canadian minister of agriculture will be the principal speaker. The afternoon session will be devoted to a discussion in which approximately 30 national experts in the various fields of conservation will participate.

The tour Saturday will end in Columbus where the assemblage will remain over night and then start out again Sunday on another tour into the badly ruined areas of southern Ohio to see the economic and sociological effects of floods and soil wastage.

Mansfield people are welcome to attend the luncheon at Malabar farm Saturday, although reservations must be made by tonight. Tickets are $1.50.

added to the county lists today, representing transfers made since the last list of registrants was announced.

Officials expected that the lottery would be completed within two hours, as compared to the 17-hour drawing last Oct. 29.

The new registrants will be integrated into the existing registration lists within the next few days. The first ones are expected to be called for service next month.

Induction of new Ohio soldiers has slowed down to a snail's pace for the last three weeks of July. Induction of call No. 21's total of 1,728 was scheduled to end July 10. The 22nd call was for only 589 men between July 11 and 26 but the most recent call—the 23rd—is a heavy one requesting 3,539 men from July 31 into an unspecified August deadline.

Adding the capsule-drawing ceremonies in the capital will be seven non-commissioned officers from Ohio inducted into the army by the selective service system, including Corporal Charles F. Tate of Bucyrus.

Meanwhile in Washington Senators Wheeler (D-Mont.) and Truman (D-Mo.) suggested compromise draft legislation which would permit selectees now in service to leave the army after one year, but require those inducted in future to serve for a longer period.

The proposal was advanced by the two senators separately as the senate military committee discussed an administration bill which would remove entirely the present one-year limit on the service of the national guard and reserves on active duty.

The committee decided to start the hearing after administration leaders had agreed with President Roosevelt to press for immediate enactment of the legislation.

Wheeler said that the government "should keep faith with the men who were drafted for only one year." He contended that "any breach of faith may tend to lower army morale." He also said the government might start a campaign to induce trainees now in service to remain for more than a year.

were killed, is virtually completed, Lutz indicated.

Attempts are now being made to wind up the investigation of the accident in which Raymond Bricker, Shelby, R. D. 4, was fatally injured, according to the prosecutor. Completion of the examination depends upon how soon several of the witnesses, still in the hospital, will be able to give statements.

Meanwhile Glen Morr, 29, 501 Grant street, was in Mansfield General hospital with a fractured skull as the result of a three-car accident shortly after midnight five miles east of Mansfield on route 42, about three miles from where the Pryor boy was killed.

Dale Glessner, 33, Seville, driver of the car in which Morr was riding, was travelling west, according to the state highway patrol and sideswiped two cars headed east.

Pence, 30, Ashland, driver of the first car, and Carl Linn, 33, Watertown, Conn., driver of the second, escaped injury.

Glessner's brother, Paul, 30, the other occupant in his machine, was treated for abrasions at the hospital and dismissed.

Glessner pleaded guilty to unsafe operation of a motor vehicle in municipal court today and was fined $25 and costs.

Another driver, Patricia L. Mann, 22, of Washington, D. C., was fined $10 and costs for unsafe operation of a motor vehicle in Mayor T. M. Henderson's court at Savannah after colliding with a car driven by Mona Farrar, 49, of Flint, Mich. The accident took place on Route 250 just north of the intersection of Route 224.

Edward H. Mellick, 38, Belleville, escaped injury today when the tongue of a wagon driven by Darrell Charles, 62, Belleville, farmer, pierced his windshield in an odd accident Wednesday afternoon on Route 13, south of Belleville.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Raymond C. Stephens, 18, of Belleville topped the crest of a hill on Route 13 south of Belleville and found Charles, driving a horse and wagon ahead of him, State highway patrolmen said Stephens pulled over to the a strike whenever they deem it necessary as a result of the vote, he stated.

Union officials said their efforts to arrange a conference with company heads on the Sferro case had failed. Company officials declared, however, that no request for a conference had been received.

Niebur said today that the union was trying to arrange a company-union meeting with a federal labor department conciliator in Cleveland, probably Monday, to consider the union's complaint.

Company spokesmen said today that all workers were in the plant today and productions was proceeding as usual.

Picket lines thrown about the company yesterday did not prevent entry of those workers who wished to enter the plant, Niebur said, although he claimed that only about 50 went in.

Company officials offered no figures, but admitted that work was proceeding on a "restricted basis."

ESCAPE INJURY

Drivers Unhurt In Traffic Accidents Near Shelby.

SHELBY—Two Shelby and one Tiro drivers escaped injury in traffic accidents in this area yesterday.

A truck driven by Forrest Brown was damaged when it skidded on route 96, east of here, and hit a cement culvert near Bear Run bridge.

Cars driven by Roy Shade of Shelby and Frank Osborn, R. D. 1, Tiro, collided at the west side square last night when the car driven by Osborn came through the intersection from the west and hit the Shade car which was going south on Gamble street, police reports showed.

right of the wagon being unable to pass because of Mellick's approach. The horse bolted to the left and drove the tongue of the wagon through Mellick's windshield. Mellick was driving south. Patrolmen listed no injuries, not even to the horse.

BREAK UP NEGRO WHITE-SLAVING

Authorities Seize Colored Man, White Woman In Raid.

CINCINNATI—(UP)—City and federal authorities today believed they had broken up one of three groups of Negroes trafficking in young Southern white girls, and were confident they soon would locate the other two rings.

Four Negroes, a white woman, and a 16-year-old Hazard, Ky., girl, the latter their victim, were caught yesterday in a raid on an apartment.

According to Detective Captain Patrick Hayes, the girl said she was standing in front of a Hazard theater on July 6 when the white woman invited her to Cincinnati. Arriving here, she told the girl, Hayes said, that she would have to meet Negro men.

RESCUES PUP

Woman Rolls Animal Over Fruit Jar After 'Drowning.'

LOUISVILLE—(P)—Two-year-old Charlotte Vaughn gave her two-month-old puppy, Perk, a swim in a rain-filled wash boiler, walked away and forgot him.

Later, Charlotte's mother discovered the pup apparently lifeless in the water. Adapting a leaf from first aid manuals intended for humans, Mrs. Vaughn revived Perk by rolling him, tumbling down, over a fruit jar instead of the customary barrel.

138 RESCUED

LONDON—(UP)—The British admiralty announced today that the auxiliary vessel Lady Somers was sunk but that 138 survivors from the total complement of 175 were rescued by Spanish ships and are being landed at a neutral port.

'Take It Easy' Advice Given to The Middle-Aged

COLUMBUS, (INS)—Persons approaching middle age were cautioned by Ohio Health Director R. H. Markwith to ignore to some extent the call of spring and to "take it easy" if they "wish to grow old gracefully—or, in fact, if they wish to grow old at all."

"Live within your physical resources," Dr. Markwith warned. "At this time of year, men in particular are inclined to forget that their bodies are not as young as they once were. They rush home from work, take a lawnmower, a rake or a set of golf clubs, and work or play until they reach the point of exhaustion.

"Exercise should be taken in small doses, particularly by those who have let themselves get out of condition. It's better to mix a little rest with a little exercise.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, JULY 17, 1941

Happiness is seldom captured by the motorist who pursues it at ninety miles an hour.

It's all in the point of view, and "Lwov" may seem no odder name than Albuquerque—after you get accustomed to it.

Sing Sing's retiring Warden Lawes contemplates buying a farm "to forget his troubles"—but many an earlier experimenter could tell him that's merely a way to add new ones.

More Daylight for Defense Work

ASIDE from a little temporary inconvenience, the "daylight saving" measure proposed by President Roosevelt "in the interest of national defense," doesn't seem to warrant the opposition it is likely to be accorded.

The whole idea of keeping tab on time, by clocks, watches and calendars, is a matter of convenience, and the routine of retiring, arising and going to and from work is governed almost entirely by habit and custom.

It appears reasonable, especially during a period of emergency, that advantage should be taken of all daylight hours, in order to conserve electric current needed for other purposes—and what is now called "7 o'clock" could as easily be called "8 o'clock," without seriously discommodating anyone.

It is no hardship, for instance, in traveling west, to set your watch back an hour, three different times, so that at noon here it is only 9 a. m. on the Pacific coast, or to reverse the process on the homeward trip.

Probably few readers have kept in mind that Mansfield was once on "Central" instead of "Eastern" standard time, or remember having complained—when the change was made—that in getting up at 7 o'clock in the morning they were "really getting up at 6."

If national adoption of "daylight saving time" will actually help the defense program, as President Roosevelt contends, it may be doubted if any milder form of sacrifice could be found.

How Motorists are Victimized

WHILE the average honesty of persons and firms engaged in automobile repair work may be no lower than that in other fields of service, faith of the motoring public is rudely shaken by a recent investigation of service garages reported in the Reader's Digest.

As described by Roger Williams Riis, the tour of discovery covered 14,500 miles and touched all parts of the country. It found only 129 places in a total of 347 tested that gave the driver a square deal. Nearly two-thirds of them charged for work they did not do or for unneeded parts which they did not always supply, or they found things to fix which did not need fixing.

Suggesting a remedy for such cheating, Mr. Riis urges the motorist, when possible, to stay with his car while work is being done in a strange garage; to ask in advance for return of any parts to be replaced, and to secure an itemized statement on the garage's printed billhead.

Motorists who know something about the mechanism of their own car, and who make sure their car is in good condition before starting on a trip, are less at the mercy of dishonest repair shops, and automobile club members have the advantage of being directed to dependable service garages in all parts of the country.

It is also possible, in almost any city or town, to make inquiries which will result in being directed to a reliable place to have a car serviced or repaired.

Among dishonest persons or firms engaged in automobile repair or service work, tourists or transient patrons appear to be regarded as legitimate prey, and the weeding out of this type of crookedness should be considered as important as ridding cities of any other racket.

Organizations of motorists could perform valuable service by ferreting out and publicizing the crooks in the auto repair business, as is sometimes done by Better Business Bureaus in a broader field.

Hardships of Japanese People

CONFRONTED by many troubles of their own, including increasing costs of living, it is well for Americans to learn about the plight of the Japanese people, due to the war of aggression against China. Domestic conditions in Japan, bad enough politically, are vastly worse economically. Here are some facts vouched for by trustworthy American observers.

The Japanese people, diverted from agriculture and swept into the war machine, are almost starving. They raise less food, and it goes to maintain the Japanese army of occupation in China and the overgrown navy. The milk supply is very low. The people cannot afford to wear cotton clothing and are reduced to an artificial fiber that soon falls to pieces. There is not enough paper to print newspapers and magazines, or to provide books for school children.

Coal, water and electric power are very short in the cities. A telephone costs $500. There is a great scarcity of iron, copper and other metals. Hospitals are terribly short of medical supplies. There is a virtual famine in coal and charcoal. Rice is "bootlegged." Rationing of civilian food gives the people very little milk and no wheat. Japanese abroad, when returning home, smuggle in butter, soap, and so on. An orange or lemon costs a dollar. The government itself, by any rational standard, is bankrupt.

No wonder there is unrest in Japan. But it is militarism that causes it. The Japanese might be happy and prosperous, by their standards, if they lived a peaceful life. And that is what most of them want.

New High for Employment

A PRIVATE fact-finding agency, the National Industrial Conference Board, estimates that only 3,962,000 are unemployed in the United States now, the lowest figure since September, 1930. According to a board survey, there were 8,735,000 jobless a year ago and at the depth of the depression, in March, 1933, some 14,762,000 were without work.

It is worth noting that nearly 4,000,000 more workers are now employed than on an average during the boom year of 1929.

Estimates of unemployment volume at best are only estimates, and these figures may be open to broad interpretation if not question. But there is no apparent indication that they are far off, and a reduction in unemployment is a sure adjunct of the industrial speedup for defense.

WANTED: A CO-ORDINATOR OF CO-ORDINATORS

FBI Training for Police Work

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — When Mayor Marvin Kline of Minneapolis appealed to J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, to find an FBI man for a police chief, Kline was joining a parade that is making the FBI one of the most unusual employment bureaus in the land.

When Hoover informed Kline that he had such a man in his own front yard, Hoover was fulfilling his little-known function as No. 1 placement for chiefs of police in the United States.

FBI National Police Academy graduates and men from the FBI rolls now are chiefs of police in 82 cities.

After explaining to Mayor Kline that all FBI agents worthy of conducting the Minneapolis police department were needed in national defense, Hoover told the mayor of Edward B. Hansen, a veteran of the Dutch police force, who not only had worked himself up to chief in Duluth, but had also acquitted himself with honors in the FBI's "West Point of law enforcement."

Mayor Kline grabbed his man.

A Daily Routine.

THIS has been going on for months. There isn't a day passes that the FBI director doesn't have from one to six requests for a recommendation for police chief. There isn't a day that he doesn't answer these requests, generally suggesting some man who graduated from the police academy. Out of nearly 600 graduates of the NPA, 78 now are chiefs of police, 2 are superintendents of police and 12 are assistant chiefs.

In Kansas City there is 6-foot-3 L. B. Reed, who has been referred to in inner circles as the best all-around FBI man the service ever had. In Tulsa in Police Chief Ralph Colvin, the man who stopped that notorious western gangster, Wilbur Underhill, and who was in the saddle as agent in charge in Oklahoma City when the "Machine-Gun" Kelley-Baily-Bates gang was rounded up.

Oklahoma City's chief is Frank Smith, a quiet, unassuming little man with gray hair — the FBI agent who knew more about the southwestern bank robbers than any other officer alive. Working, almost singlehanded, in the heart of the bank robbery country, he cleaned out the bandits to such an extent that in 1937, toward the end of his FBI reign, there wasn't a single bank robbery in his territory. Incidentally, if Oklahoma City wants to know how close they came to being with Frank Smith, let them look up the story of the "Kansas City massacre." When gunmen opened up on the car that was transporting fugitive gangster Frank Nash back to prison, Smith was sitting in the center of the back seat but, miraculously, came out of that slaughter unscathed.

They're Representative.

THESE represent the kind of men who are going over to cities as chiefs of police, carrying with them FBI methods. NPA graduates who have not worked for the FBI had the cream of knowledge the FBI has assembled.

Here is another sidelight. The District of Columbia police force, because of an unprecedented epidemic of unsolved crimes, is under congressional investigation. Almost at the outset, it was disclosed that only one man in the Washington police force ever had been through the FBI's national police academy and that there is no former FBI man on the local force.

Perhaps it is pertinent to this story that Capt. Harvey G. Callahan, the only Washington policeman who ever did swallow the FBI's concentrated capsule of law enforcement, may be the next chief of police of the nation's capital.

'The Future Exists'

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

STARTLING old chap, that Nostradamus. Columns have been full of his prophecies lately. Read any of them?

In case you haven't, Michel de Notredame (Nostradamus) was a French astrologer and philosopher of Jewish origin who lived from 1503 to 1566. During that time he saw horrors which make our present social mess look like a kindergarten game. Crookedness and cruelty in high places, filth, hunger and terror in the dark haunts of the poor.

The plague, killing its thousands, including his own wife and babies. Such experiences might well have numbed the brain of a weaker man. But they seem to have widened Nostradamus's vision, even while they broke his heart. And, under the urge of this new understanding, he wrote prophecies which have amazed the world ever since.

How could this man foretell things which would happen fifty, one hundred, four hundred years hence? How could he foresee the fate of nations as well as men? They say he used intricate mathematical and astrological calculations. Many accused him of witchcraft. But it's plain, today, that he used that most potent magic of all—Common Sense.

Nostradamus did not regard the future as a Veiled Mystery. He saw plainly that it was the direct consequence of the Present and the Past . . . that we made our Tomorrow out of what we did and thought today . . . that we get, and become, what we ask for.

"THE FUTURE EXISTS," said Nostradamus. And in those three words lay his whole philosophy. Most of us regard the Future as mysterious Mumbo-Jumbo . . . something filled with shocks and surprises which no man can anticipate. But Nostradamus saw that there are no surprises in the future . . . there are only CONSEQUENCES.

"THE FUTURE EXISTS" . . . BECAUSE WE'RE MAKING IT NOW. We'll reap tomorrow what we sow today. Which is a pretty gloomy prospect, considering most of our sowing. But there's also a happier side to the picture.

The Future isn't simply the sum of what we did yesterday or today. It's also the sum of our hopes and experiments—the things we tried but somehow failed to do. For the things a man DOES may be completely different from what he WANTS TO DO. You can't judge any man by his acts. A stomach ulcer may turn you into a turgid man when you truly wish to be a turtle dove.

It's the inner urge that counts in shaping one's Destiny. And that goes for nations as well as individuals.

Nostradamus didn't really see into the Future. He simply saw into the Present. His shrewd, sad eyes saw the seeds of cursedness and blessedness before they were sown. . . . and saw, too, that which we humans have to finish what we start. There could be no Nostradamuses, if we had the nerve to recognize the truth when we face it.

Greatest Boon Announced.

The greatest boon to mankind—long-suffering mankind—since the discovery of sulfanilamide is reported from New York.

It is the silent horn, a motor car horn that will not sound when a car is standing still or moving at less than three miles an hour. At operating speed it operates normally.

Of course, the ideal horn would be one which would not sound except when legitimately and sensibly used. But until the day when heaven descends to earth and we all enter the final Utopia, this blessed invention will suffice. It could be required by constitutional amendment, congressional enabling law, presidential ukase, gubernatorial blessing and mayoral proclamation.

In every town of the land grateful citizens who have learned to drive with moderate intelligence will erect monuments to the inventor of this boon to mankind.—Atlanta Constitution.

Then cometh the end, when he shall have delivered up the kingdom to God, even the Father: when he shall have put down all rule, and all authority and power. For he must reign, till he hath put all enemies under his feet.—1 Cor. 15: 24, 25.

What makes them so noticeable are the sharp cries coming from behind the counters. "We cater to so many celebrities today that our haircuts no longer look human." By "celebrities" could they mean long haired actors?

Another is the tale of the moody Russian who stared gleefully into his vodka for an hour or more. With each drink he became moodier, and finally he growled to the barkeep, "I'm sick of this confounded, no good country. I'm going back to America."

"Where do you think you are?" demanded the barkeep. "Omsk," yelled the Russian. "Omsk," yelled the waiter. "Grabbing the discotheque," volunteered by the seat of the breeches. "You're in Twenty-Third street."

THIS next item doesn't concern Russians, though it is about long hair, and maybe that's what suggested it. Anyway, people walking in Sixth avenue or coming out of the Music Hall are regaled by a sign in a barber shop nearby which flaunts this legend: "We cater to so many celebrities today that our haircuts no longer look human." By "celebrities" could they mean long haired actors?

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Iceland Action Was Not Hurried Orders Held Up Several Times

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The administration had a hard time making up its mind to go into Iceland. Actually the navy had orders four different times to prepare for the trip, and three times the orders were cancelled or held in abeyance.

It was last May that some of the marines were embarked at Quantico. They sailed down the Potomac to Norfolk, then to Charleston, S. C., were kept in suspense regarding their destination until about two weeks ago.

As far as naval officers could ascertain, there was no particular reason for the frequent changes in plans except that the president was not quite sure of American public opinion. Naval officers flew several times to Iceland in advance of the landing, conferred with the British about the details of the occupation. The navy was completely prepared.

There is no question that the president has made all the decisions regarding Iceland, even down to such details as whether newspapermen should be permitted to visit the island after the landing of American troops.

The state department approved the idea of American newsmen going to this new American outpost. So also did Secretary of the Navy Knox. Both felt that just as American newsmen were in France during the last war and reported on the actions of American troops, so newsmen had the right to keep the public informed about American troops in Iceland.

But apparently some of the admirals did not agree with their chief, the secretary of the navy, and tipped off the White House. The president intervened personally and said that no newsmen could go to Iceland.

Note—Despite all the news suppression demanded by the admirals, Spanish, Japanese and Swedish ships, all close to or dominated by the Axis, keep their radios operating while in American ports or American waters. It is highly unlikely that they fail to note the presence of British vessels or U. S. transports loaded with American marines.

Capital Chaff.

AMONG other aids to Great Britain, you can look for the lease or lend of more submarines. About one-third of the original U. S. submarines sent to Britain exactly a year ago now have been sunk or put out of commission. Greece, Crete, and Atlantic warfare took the toll. . . . The navy is sore at the state department for not doing a little warming up to Russian commanders in Siberia. If Russia falls, it will be good to have an ally in the Red army in this neck of the woods opposite Alaska, but apparently we are letting the Japanese do the warming up. . . . Henry Morgenthau, who prides himself on turning one of the most efficient treasury departments in history, has kept a customs official in Maryland who has not been out of bed for seven years. The government pays him $500 annually.

U. S. Russian Experts.

THE job of being ambassador to Moscow is considered the toughest on the entire roster of U. S. diplomatic posts. The weather is either torrid or below freezing. Recreational facilities are almost nil. Food and sanitary conditions are nothing to rave about. And constant surveillance of the OGPU makes mingling with the Russian people impossible. Therefore few American diplomats have relished being stationed in Russia.

However, the United States is lucky to have as its ambassador to Russia Laurence Steinhardt, one of the best men to hold that post in years. No career diplomat, Steinhardt is a New York lawyer who got his job through pure politics. He was the nephew of the late Sam Untermyer, staunch political supporter of FDR.

Steinhardt first got a job as minister to Sweden, then was promoted to an ambassadorship to Peru, then got what most other diplomats did not want, the thankless but all-important job as ambassador to Russia.

In that job Steinhardt has been friendly but tough. He has stood his ground against Soviet diplomatic straight-arms, and has won their respect probably more than the friendly attitude of British Ambassador Sir Stafford Cripps.

The United States is also lucky to have as the state department's chief Russian expert Lay Henderson, a man who also thoroughly understands Russia. For years, the state department's Russian expert was a man who had never been to Russia, hated all things Russian and was close to prominent churchmen who lobbied against the Soviets.

Henderson, on the other hand, has lived not only in Russia, but in a country bordering Russia. Son of a Methodist preacher, he was born in Arkansas, raised in Kansas and unlike many U. S. diplomats knows that there is a part of the United States west of the Mississippi river.

A Farmer's Diary

The Old Church

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE old country church stood for a century by the road that neighboring farmers paved with rough cobblestones gleamed from off the fields. A tall spire adorned the front of the old frame structure, and in the belfry the well made glimpses of black and white as it turned and swung. Beneath the vestibule where the people entered, a worn rope hung through the ceiling.

As a little boy, I enjoyed to watch the sexton pull that rope and ring the bell until my young ears ached with the sound of it; until it rocked the strong oak timbers of the loft and all the windows rattled. The worshippers were silent when the bell began to ring, for it was more melodious, more resonant than any human voice and had a mystery and a rhythm that close at hand were almost severe; but ten miles off, it echoed from the hills, a far off sweeter sound.

The church had a large adjacent cemetery. Deep woods bordered on the west. Between the church and the woods, the superstitious people of this Pennsylvania Dutch community had many evidences of spirits rising back and forth. Some heard voices and had their horses frightened beyond control; some saw lights about the gravestones and heard strange cries down by the woods. Whenever I drove by, with my father, I noticed that our horses picked up their ears at the white headstones—and then I clutched his coat and buried my face beneath the laprobe until we passed this ghostly spot.

My father was sexton there for many years. He seemed to have no fear of the place. I recall his telling my mother once, in excited Pennsylvania Dutch, that he had entered the church to light the coal oil lamps and heard movements and deep breathing up near the altar. When the match flared up he felt a sleepy tramp who had sought shelter.

I recall by grandfather's funeral service at that church. It was dead winter and everyone went in sleighs. Even the hearse was mounted on runners. I remember the sexton, high up in the steeple, tolled the bell—and the sad slow procession wound almost out of sight before the tolling, tolling notes had counted the number of the dead man's years.

Now the church is gone. A small monument not more than six feet high and four feet wide is there to mark the spot. The community of worshippers has passed away or moved to other places. Yet to some of us, that old country church still stands, and we worship there each time those old memories return.

CHAPTER X

Four days to Rio. Dreary, dismal days when fog blotted out the coast and depressed the passengers. It rained almost constantly and passing ships sent forth their melancholy warning over turbulent, gray waters. Doris wore sweaters over her thin summer dresses but the damp cold seemed to penetrate into her heart. Miserably she paced the lounge and the sheltered deck. Sometimes she went to the rail and felt the rain on her face and the sharp sea wind in her hair but the days crawled by. Bridge games went on constantly, but Doris did not play so she was left to her own devices. The food seemed tasteless to her. The nights were long and sad as she lay awake reviewing her life, listening to the foghorns, feeling the roll of the ship, wondering how she could endure the rest of the long voyage to New York.

But the day they arrived in Rio dawned unexpectedly clear and Doris's spirits rose at the prospect of seeing Miss Pringle again. The sight of her familiar figure boarding the ship brought a lump into the girl's throat. Strange how devoted people become away from home. She felt as though she had known Miss Pringle all her life.

The older woman seemed equally pleased. "My dear! How are you?" she demanded, greeting Doris affectionately. "I'm a wreck," Doris admitted. "I can't wait to get off this ship." They went to the hotel for lunch and Miss Pringle asked about Ricardo, adding, "He was terribly upset when I told him that you had run off to Buenos Aires."

Doris sighed. "He did everything he could to persuade me to marry him. It was all I could do to refuse."

"For the same old reason, I suppose?" Jimmy Allen?"

"Yes. . . I wonder if I'll ever forget him."

Miss Pringle set down her coffee cup with deliberation. "He telephoned the morning you left."

"The color rushed into Doris's cheeks. "Jimmy called me?"

"Yes. He insisted upon knowing where you were."

"As if he didn't know!" Doris said angrily. "He hadn't even tried to get in touch with me until he saw me at the restaurant with Ricardo."

"He said he thought you had gone to Buenos Aires two weeks ago. He didn't seem to know that you were staying in Rio."

Guiltily Doris remembered that she had told Jimmy she was not staying in Rio. It had been her own fault.

"Did you tell him where I was?"

"Yes. Didn't he get in touch with you?"

Her heart sank! Why hadn't Jimmy called her? He knew where she was yet he had not bothered to do anything about it.

"He said," Miss Pringle continued innocently, "that he was flying to Buenos Aires on the next plane. He said he had to see you."

Doris put down her fork. "But he didn't call me. I haven't heard a word from him. I had no idea that he was in Buenos Aires."

"Do you suppose Ricardo had anything to do with it?" Miss Pringle asked thoughtfully.

Doris reflected for a moment. Was Ricardo capable of interfering to that extent? Could he have possibly forestalled Jimmy without her knowledge?

"I don't think he could have done such a thing."

"He's a Latin," Miss Pringle reminded her. "And they'll do anything in a love affair."

Doris shrugged, trying to hide her disappointment. "If Jimmy had really wanted to see me, Ricardo couldn't have stopped him. A man can always find a way if he wants to. What's the use of kidding myself? I've been excusing Jimmy ever since I met him."

"He sounded very much disturbed when I talked with him. Remember, Doris, you've never really given him a chance to explain about his marriage. You've run away from him without listening every time. You'd be happier to know the truth."

"Maybe you're right, but it's too late, now."

She looked so forlorn that Miss Pringle patted her hand. "My dear, it's not as bad as all that. He's probably back in Rio by this time. We can stop at his hotel and ask."

They paid their check and left. "What will I say to him?" Doris asked.

"Simply tell him that you are sailing for home tonight and you would like to talk with him before you leave. Then at least you'll have everything straightened out in your own mind. You won't go through life wondering."

Doris knew that Miss Pringle was right. She was ashamed of her own cowardice. But the very thought of seeing Jimmy Allen again filled her with panic. How could she look into that handsome face, those unfathomable blue-black eyes and not love him? If he were sweet to her, it would only make it more difficult. To see him was torture, knowing that he belonged to another woman. How could she bear his eagerness, the way he moved his hands, the way he lit a cigaret, and ran his fingers through his sleek black hair.

By the time they reached his hotel her courage had left her but Miss Pringle said resolutely, "It's now or never, Doris."

She walked up to the desk and spoke his name. There was a terrible moment as the clerk went through the files with madly tingling Latin slowness before he informed her, "Senior Allen left for Buenos Aires two days ago."

Doris looked at Miss Pringle. So he had gone to Buenos Aires! He had gone to see her?

"I'm sorry!" Miss Pringle said comfortingly, reading Doris's thoughts. "Come, my dear, let's go to a movie."

The cool darkness of the theater was a relief. Doris sat stonily staring at the screen with unseeing eyes. It was an American movie with sub-titles in Portuguese. The movie was an old one. She had seen it before in Detroit, and now her mind was free to dwell upon Jimmy Allen. Why had he gone to Buenos Aires in search of her and then disappeared? Their whole romance, if it could be called that, had been strange and unpredictable. There had been so many odd incidents, such as the peculiar interest of George Malone. He had taken an almost morbid interest in her, and Jimmy. He had insinuated that she was trying to marry Jimmy for his money, and on the last day of the voyage he had prophesied, "We will meet again, my dear! What could he have meant by his insulting looks, his shaded tones? What was this thread of mystery that seemed to connect the three of them? Could there be any connection between George Malone and Jimmy?"

She had been thinking so intently that she was surprised when the lights went on. "It seems as if we just came in," she said.

"What time does your boat sail?" Miss Pringle inquired briskly.

"Midnight. We still have an hour or two before dinner. Let's do some shopping. I'd like to take a few things home with me."

They found a magnificent collection of jewels in the shops. Diamonds and blazing aquamarines set in platinum. Beautifully carved silver pieces and perfume for much less than one paid at home.

Doris picked out the most exotic bottle for Bonnie. She knew what it would mean to a girl who worked in Klane's basement, a girl who had never had a penny to spend for luxury. Once she had been a girl like that. Strange, though, she had almost been happier in those days. Her fine clothes and wonderful trip had brought her no pleasure. They could not win love! Better to be in rags, and have the man you want. It was hard to believe that she was going home, back to Mrs. Ames' boarding house. Back to Klane's basement. Penniless, when a few weeks ago she had five thousand dollars. . . .

"In a month I'll be behind the counter again," she told Miss Pringle. "I don't see how I could have been such a fool to spend all that money. I could have gone to business school—done many more sensible things."

Miss Pringle sighed. "It's always hard to get back to reality. But life isn't glamour, Doris. We all have to learn that sooner or later."

"I've learned it," Doris said soberly. "I won't expect things to happen any more. I certainly won't expect anything from Jimmy Allen!"

"I can't quite understand him myself," Miss Pringle admitted. "It's the kind of thing that happens to girls who believe everything a man tells them. I'm too gullible, that's all."

At eleven-thirty that night Doris was back on the ship. She accompanied Miss Pringle to the gangplank and bade her a fond farewell.

"I'll try to stop in Detroit long enough to see you," Miss Pringle promised. "Be brave, my dear. And don't think too much."

"I'm all right," Doris insisted, wondering how she could feel sorry for herself instead of her friend. What had Miss Pringle ever had out of life and now she had not even youth. . . . "Thanks again for being so sweet!"

Sunday School Teachers Need Parents' Help

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

Most parents who want their children to attend Sunday school wish the Sunday school were better. But better leaders and teachers in Sunday school are not easily found.

With few exceptions, Sunday school teachers serve without pay. When these teachers do well they devote a great deal of time to the work, besides being busy people in other fields. In addition to being on hand promptly every Sunday morning, they spend hours and hours every week preparing lesson plans, ideas and materials. They aim to have an interesting lesson period and to induce each pupil to respond wholeheartedly during the time, and to participate in the discussion. They strive, moreover, to inspire their pupils to prepare the Sunday school lesson at home.

Also, the successful Sunday school teacher must attend a good many extra meetings and make visits to the home of the pupils. Furthermore, she or he plans and attends several parties for her class each year.

I admire the Sunday school teachers who really take their job seriously, and are an inspiration to the boys and girls men and women they teach. We parents too seldom express to them the appreciation they deserve.

Some of the ablest Sunday school teachers grow discouraged at times with the indifference of parents, and the growing lack of self-control and regard for the rights of others in so many children.

Parent Help Needed.

The teachers need the help of parents. Those who really care are eager to co-operate. Yet many of the roughneck boys from eight to twelve had their patterns of conduct pretty well established at home. I don't believe any teacher who understands children and has teaching skill and well prepared lessons should have to put up with annoyance by naughty children every Sunday morning. The Sunday school should not have to be a reformatory.

I have observed that, in the rural church where all the Sunday school classes must operate in the one main auditorium, there are no problems of discipline. The presence of older persons has a taming effect on the youngsters.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

I am afraid I stared at Nancy Carew at blankly and rudely as might any yokel confronted by an astonishing and unexpected question. But she had so astounded me by her query that I could find no words with which to answer her. "I am so sorry," she said. "I knew I should not have asked you that."

I took my hand from the arm of my chair, reached over and laid it over hers. "Of course you should," I said warmly. "Please do not waste another second's regret over it. You simply astounded me so that I was literally speechless for a second or two. But now I begin to see the amazing significance in your question, and I shall answer it as fully as I can."

My voice trailed away, and she promptly answered my unspoken suggestion with a counter one.

Madge Explains First. "Shall I tell you now why I put that question?" she queried. "Not until I have answered your question," I said, and wondered if the answer on my lips really reflected my conviction.

"I am sure I can trust your discretion," I began, "to keep to yourself what I am going to tell you." "My father, though now retired except when the government especially needs him, was for years the head of a very special inner circle of the secret service, which had to do with international plotters against the government."

"Ah!" Nancy Carew breathed, and I hurried on. "Remember Marion's Letter. 'Frequently my husband and I have helped my father in his work,' I said, 'and of course there are things we all know which would be vitally important to certain enemies of the government.' But," I went on, "Mary has no special knowledge which would be of value to anyone—that is—"

I paused again while, like a blow in the face, came the remembrance of the mystery of Marion's kidnapping, of the code letter which Mary was even now waiting to interpret, and of the murderous attempts by the gangsters, of the train and in the hotel, to get hold of that letter. "I wonder," I exclaimed, with mounting excitement in my voice. "You've thought of something," she said with conviction. "Yes, I have," I said, "but there isn't time now for me to tell you."

"The Authority on Authority"

WHEN A SIX BID IS LOW

"Pre-empt to the limit, or not at all" is an old and oft-quoted maxim of the experts. By that they usually mean bidding four of a major instead of three, or five of a minor instead of three or four. That is, of course, if your hand justifies it, especially your suit-length. Failure to bid high enough has often enabled strong opponents to get together in their bidding and defeat the whole purpose of the pre-empt. That can apply also to bids as high as six, when seven would be better.

Against that bidding South led the diamond K and A, gave North a ruff of the diamond 10, and later North took a heart trick, setting the contract four for a score. Many points were made, however, at the table in the same duplicate where South had his nerve with him. Over East's 1-Spade, he bid 7-Clubs at once, and everybody passed. West did not dare to monkey with that, especially since he felt there might be a chance to pick up a trick somewhere against a grand slam, particularly since South bid it that way. Anyhow, he wanted East to have a chance to double it if he wished to.

The spade Q was led and ruffed by the 7-Clubs declarer, who was Captain living K. Woolfe, great worker of the New York bridge committee aiding the British-American Ambulance Corps. He dropped the one outstanding trump, cashed the two high diamonds and ruffed the 10 in the dummy.

Explaining his bid later, he pointed out that the contract could be made if North had either a doubleton and one trump, or if he had the diamond Q, or if he had the J and the Q was doubleton, or if he had the ace of whatever suit got led, or if he lacked all of these things and the defenders guessed wrong when discarding on that long string of clubs. In a nutshell, the chances were heavily in favor of grand slam being made, so he soundly bid it.

Tomorrow's Problem.

If East and West bid all four of their suits and wind up in 6- No Trumps, which suit should South logically lead, and which ones should be logically avoided, and why?

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

You Meet Interesting People.
(And It's the Little Things That Intrigue You.)

FOR some time I have been curious to know the manner in which our famous playwrights and authors work, and I have snooped to find out what sharpens their pencils and oils their typewriters and stirs their imaginations in the moments of their more fancy metaphors.

Dorothy Kilgallen Do they sit down at a desk with a quill pen and stare into space?

Do they doodle on a green blotter? Do they play Brahms to get into the mood, tilt their feet up on a radiator, gaze at landscape out the window—or just sit down at a desk and go at it as automatically as a bookkeeper?

Well, I learn, they do different things. Maxwell Anderson writes those lovely lyrical words in a little shack he built for himself on an acre behind his house in New City. If he's not finished with a play in five days, he's disappointed, and inclined to have little faith in it.

S. N. Behrman works from six in the morning until nine and then quits for the day. Margaret Mitchell claims to get all her best ideas (and she had quite an idea in "Gone With The Wind") while baking cookies. Moss Hart works best in brightly patterned lounging pajamas. Wendell Willkie knots and unties his neckties while he works at his desk. . . . and as everyone knows George S. Kaufman paces his collaborator's menage and snoops desultorily.

Gene Tunney has cut out cock-tails, even mild ones, and is keeping in fighting shape since he took over the job of conditioning Uncle Sam's naval recruits. Now 43, Tunney looks splendid. He weighs just a bit over 200, 10 pounds above what used to be his ideal fighting weight.

Robert Taylor may be a glamor boy to his thousands of fans, but he's still an affable kid from the sticks to those who know him well. When he memorizes his lines at home, he usually asks a friend to help him with the pronunciation of words he's not sure of.

Jim Farley doesn't smoke or drink, but goodness, how he chews gum! And he reads the gossip columns as closely as he reads the political pillars—has his secretary mail some of them to him when he's out of town.

Irving Berlin never makes an important decision without pacing first. Often he walks several miles around a carpet prior to making up his mind. . . . Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt collects sports jackets.

Fred Allen, who is one of the highest paid performers in the United States, is more interested in punching than punch lines. He goes to a gym twice a week, sharpens his left hook and sharpens his right hook as seriously as if he were training for a championship fight.

Mae Murray often turns up in night clubs in the same black mesh stockings she uses in her act at the Diamond Horseshoe. . . . Clifton Fadiman chews on the rims of his eye glasses.

W. C. Fields wears a heavy camels hair coat and cap in some of the hottest weather. It's a unique kind of cooling system he's thought up.

Mario Tosatti, who runs the Copacabana in Hollywood now, is superstitious about green, and wouldn't ever let any of his help wear green ties, use green blotters, or write with green ink. Once he even had an entire menu series reprinted because the printer showed palm trees as green ones!

He was never, however, superstitious about greenbacks. Jimmy Durante isn't meticulous about his tailoring, but he won't sleep in anything but a brass bed.

J. Edgar Hoover, the country's most famous sleuth, is an omnivorous reader of comics starring detectives and adventure lads. He sighs with admiration when a funny-paper Sherlock unravels a mystery. "Look at the way he figured that out!" the G-man marvels.

Everything has its uses, I know, but it came as something of a surprise to me to learn that Sally Rand's especially made balloons have a use other than that of hanging around Sally's torso.

I am told by a representative of Miss Rand herself that the U. S. government is permitted by Sally to use balloons of the same design. Uncle Sam uses them for his weather bureau.

Norma Shearer loves to dance, and when she visits a night club she dances more than she sits.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Joseph I. Breen, the former movie code administrator, makes the kind of studio executive that makes life a pleasure for us who want to know what's what.

Joe Breen, eight years on the hot seat at the Hays office charged with making movies do their own housekeeping, has taken charge of RKO production. When Joe holds a press conference, as he did the other day, he says things and answers questions. He cites book, page, and number—sometimes off the record, but with no dodgings.

Mr. Breen left his Hays job because he couldn't take it any more. He was "punch-drunk." They wanted him to stay, he says, thinking maybe more money could change his mind, but that wasn't it. This was his job: to pass on some 3,600 stories, books, or plays a year out of which Hollywood would make between 500 and 600 pictures; to pass on each selected story with an average of three and five-eighths scripts per production; to see the completed pictures, and all the time to make changes to conform to the code. (His way was "affirmative"—if he demanded a change he always tried to suggest a better way.)

Breen as a movie executive, as an ex-code man, realizes that many pictures aren't entertainment, and he's now out to make entertainment. He's aware that the majority of movie patrons lie in the 16 to 26 age group. He's aware that good stories are the sine qua non of good movie entertainment. He'll challenge you to name one star who has survived bad stories, and you can't. He can point out many stars who are now "out" because of poor stories. His aim now: to develop good new writers, good new producers, good new faces.

Henry Hathaway, the director, is on the warpath. His last picture was "lost" after he left the job, and he's sick about it. "It was the best picture I ever made," he says, "but now I well, I haven't seen it since they finished with it."

A bakery truck parked in the center of the busy intersection of South Main and South Park streets while a police officer chatted with a passerby less than a block away. . . . Courthouse Custodian Tony Moritz massaging the front steps of the county citadel.

Ray (Golden-Russell) Beal's smoking at the corner of Fourth and Main. . . . Dick Donan standing at Park avenue and the Richmond Trust discussing acquaintances with a schoolmate.

Mrs. James R. Young of New York visiting her brother Ned Willis at his home here. . . . She brought along from New York her small son "Pat" and a lot of interesting anecdotes about New York writers and life in Tokyo where she spent several years.

Council Clerk "Bill" Beer paying a visit to the county auditor's office. . . . Police Chief Meade K. Bates shopping downtown. . . .

CIO Talks Work Holiday In Cleveland

ASKS 30,000
LIMITED-DUTY
MEN BE CALLEDBird Suggests Men Be Placed
In Service, Freeing Others.
For Combat Training.

(By United Press)
COLUMBUS—Induction into the army or navy of the 30,000 Ohio registrants who have been classified as fit only for limited military training to free an equal number of physically fit men for combat training, was suggested today by State Adjutant General Whit-tier S. Bird.

Gen. Bird advanced the suggestion as the war department and Gen. George C. Marshall sought to build our army to its greatest possible fighting strength in the shortest possible time.

"By inducting some of these limited-duty men into the training army, physically fit soldiers who are now doing house-keeping and clerical duties could be freed for actual military training," Gen. Bird said.

Former chief of staff of the 37th division, now training at Camp Shelby, Miss., Gen. Bird is familiar with the needs of the training army.

"Men who have some slight physical handicap which would make it impossible for them to serve with the field forces could well be utilized by the corps area service commands," Gen. Bird said.

"At Camp Shelby there are close to 3,000 soldiers who are assigned to the corps service troops," he said. "These men have all been accepted as physically fit yet they are working in laundries, baking bread and doing clerical work in the induction and reception centers. A man with teeth that don't match or a man with flat feet could do the work just as well.

"Besides there are a lot of young men with some slight physical handicap who have been classified in I-B who want to go to camp and do their part in national defense," the adjutant general said. Selective service regulations now provide that I-B men shall not be inducted "until such time as they may be acceptable to, and called by, the land or naval forces."

As of June 1, there were 30,342 Ohio registrants in class I-B.

Sherwood said the interest charged was more than allowed under the Ohio Small Loan act.

PLAN FOLLOWS
INJURING OF
30 IN RIOTLeaders Claim Demonstration
Would Call 85,000 Workers From Jobs.

CLEVELAND—Precipitated by a riot in which more than 30 persons were injured during the noon hour yesterday at the Paterson-Leitch company, steel warehouse, CIO unionists today considered calling a general labor holiday and the Cleveland Federation of Labor met to discuss a jurisdictional fight between rival CIO and A. F. of L. unions.

CIO leaders said that a general labor holiday would result in more than 85,000 workers walking off their jobs in a "demonstration of strength" of the CIO in Cleveland. The fight at the company warehouse started after a group of A. F. of L. leaders went to the plant following a meeting of business agents. They talked with company officials and asked them to cease operations until the NLRB took action on a request for an employee election.

A group of CIO workmen was forced to lock themselves in the plant when nuts and bolts started flying and men began wielding heavy steel angle bars. Four men were treated at hospitals for head injuries.

Notifying Mayor Edward Blythin of the melee, A. E. Stevenson, CIO Cleveland industrial union council secretary, accused the A. F. of L. of unwarranted brutality, while the A. F. of L. claimed that employment of any CIO men at the steel warehouse was a violation of a closed shop contract which they claimed is in force between the company and the A. F. of L. structural iron workers union.

Meanwhile, the plant, which has stored much of the steel for the army's arsenal at Ravenna, was shut down.

NEEDS 37,000BUC Reports Shortage of Workers In Defense Factories.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Ohio industry is in desperate need of 37,605 defense workers by Oct. 1, the state bureau of unemployment compensation reported today.

Most serious shortages in the state, the BUC reported, are at Cleveland, Springfield and Lima. Cleveland industries will need 11,163 men, but have a supply of only 6,649. Springfield will need 3,737 but has only 369 and Lima will need 1,700 and has only 288.

The needs were ascertained through a careful survey of 711 of the state's 1,331 defense work employers.

PRICE BOOSTED

Delivered Milk Sells For 13 Cents
In Cleveland Area.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—The price of milk was up one cent today in Cleveland due to a poor feed crop, a serious shortage of farm labor and a heavy demand for evaporated milk to supply the needs of Great Britain.

Milk was being sold at 13 cents a quart, delivered. It was one cent cheaper in the stores.

ILLNESS RISE SENDS RELIEF COSTS UPWARD

County Expenditures Increase After Decreasing For Five Months, Report Shows.

A sudden increase in illness among indigent persons in Richland county which more than doubled the cost of their medical care during June broke the five-month relief record of sizeable decreases in Richland county.

After reporting large cuts in relief expenditures since January, J. V. Finney, relief director for Mansfield and Richland county relief, announced today that June costs had shown an increase of $80.77 over May's figures.

Although practically every other department reported decreases, the expenditure of $1,205.35 for medical care in the county brought the month's total to $7,147.04. Only $7,066.27 was spent during May.

Medical care for indigents in Mansfield showed a rise of less than $25 while that for the county jumped more than $600 from $585.40 in May to $1,205.35 in June. City cases showed a rise from $651.64 to $875.15.

"There's no explanation for the rise," said Finney. "We have no control over sickness and the cost varies monthly."

Records show that the cost of medical care for indigents does vary sharply each month. During April, $965 was spent while $489 was paid in March, $1,029 in February and $586 in January.

Although relief costs were higher than in May, practically every department showed decreases in costs. County relief dropped from $1,664.91 in May to $1,390.03 in June while city relief decreased from $2,511.44 to $2,387.99.

The case load was decreased 29 cases, making a total of 261 cases including 795 persons receiving poor relief in both areas during June.

"Administrative expenses were maintained at the same level, raising only one dollar from $836 in May to $837 in June. Non-administrative expenses, however, raised from $795.65 to $817.75. The increase was due to the payment of $212.50 to help start the county's federal food stamp plan, according to Finney.

The records of Dorothy Arnold, WPA referral clerk, show that WPA laborers dropped from 322 in May to only 254 in June. Seventy-nine persons are awaiting assignment to WPA projects.

During June, 105 families were cared for by the WPA house-keeping aid project in which 68 persons spent 1,125 hours in training and 6,498 1/2 hours in the homes of indigent persons.

The WPA sewing project turned out 1,034 pieces of clothing and household garments at a cost of $266.70. Twenty-five persons were employed on this project.

Introduction of the food stamp plan in the middle of the month cut heavily into the commodities distributed from the relief office warehouse. No potatoes, lard or grapefruit juice was distributed as in former months and other commodities show great drops. Surplus food is now being distributed on a stamp plan which allows the relief client a wider choice range and cuts cost for federal and local governments.

Drugs in commodities distributed were: corn meal, 3,579 to 94 pounds; wheat cereal, 2,076 to 991 pounds; Graham flour, 4,448 to 2,708 pounds; dried beans, 1,422 to 41 pounds; evaporated milk, 620 to 282 cans; prunes, 30 to 13 pounds; and raisins, 1,900 to 1,883 pounds.

NEW ORLEANS—INS—An enforcement problem as serious as any faced by a municipal police department has the New Orleans force stumped.

Records show that of the first 18 persons who died as a result of traffic fatalities on the city's streets, six, or one-third, were reported to have "walked into the side of a moving automobile."

"There is only one way to protect people from their own absent-mindedness," said Police Chief George Royer. "That is to provide a police escort for them every time they cross a street. We hardly have that many policemen."

The average age of the six persons was 45 years.

GETS STATUE

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—The first statue erected in honor of Gen. James Longstreet, second in command to Gen. Robert E. Lee during the Civil War, and a veteran of the Mexican campaigns, will be unveiled at the Gettysburg National Military park early in July, the Longstreet Memorial association has announced.

The military hero who led Confederate armies through Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Georgia and East Tennessee, will be honored near the spot where he reportedly advised Lee not to order Pickett's charge on Cemetery Hill.

LEG AIDS BRITAIN—HAMPTON, N. H.—(INS)—"Buddies for Britain" is prospering at the expense of Mrs. Philip Howe's broken leg. Mrs. Howe returned from a skiing trip to Stowe, Vt., with her leg in a cast. She requested friends to forego sending her flowers and cards—and instead autograph her plaster cast for "Buddies for Britain."

Shortage of Hair Dyes Handicap British Women

LONDON—(INS)—Many women in Britain are going grey owing to the shortage of hair dyes and bleaches.

hair themselves are in some cases going grey with surprising rapidity.

Synthetic blonds are resorting to peroxide of hydrogen and other homey bleaches because they cannot get their favorite proprietary brand.

"The difficulty is less acute in London than in the provinces, where some towns have thousands more women than usual," said a leading hair-dye manufacturer today.

Cotton is grown in 19 states. Texas has the largest annual crop.

AMPLE SUPPLY OF GASOLINE FOR OHIO SEEN

Petroleum Leader Says State Does Not Need to Face 'Gasless Sundays.'

(By International News Service) COLUMBUS, July 16.—The world may get its gasoline and oil from the United States and there still is no need for "gasless Sundays" in Ohio.

Robert A. Warfel, executive secretary of the Ohio Petroleum Marketers association, made this cheering announcement after Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts urged all filling stations in that state to close at 6:30 p. m. Saltonstall was one of 15 eastern governors who were asked by oil czar Harold Ickes to be in conservation of oil and gas for national defense. The action taken by him and Ickes followed hard on the heels of word that Canadians had been forbidden to buy gasoline for 12 hours out of 24 and that Canadian prices were upped one cent a gallon.

Warfel cited Dr. Gustav Egloff, nationally known Chicago petroleum research expert, as his authority for belief that Ohio need never fear a gasoline shortage, come what may.

Warfel quoted Dr. Egloff as saying that the United States has oil supplies and refining facilities sufficient to answer demands of all the war and peacetime demands that this or any combination of Democratic nations may place upon it.

As to why Ohio itself should suffer no shortages, Warfel cited these factors:

1. Four of the major gasoline companies of the nation—Standard Oil, Gulf, Pure and Sun—have huge refineries in the state.

2. These refineries are fed by both rail tank cars and by almost a score of pipelines all of the latter not extending to the eastern states where early gasoline curtailment has been asked.

3. Gasoline storage capacity of the state is far in excess of any demands that may be made upon it, the major storage points being Cleveland, Toledo, Cincinnati, Canton, Newark and Ashland and Latonia, Ky. the two Kentucky cities are close to Cincinnati and are considered in the Ohio area, Warfel said.

He pointed out that pipelines also serve Cleveland, Cincinnati, Dayton, Lima, Toledo and Youngstown, assuring this state a continuous and ample means of obtaining oil and gasoline from Texas, Oklahoma and other fields at all times.

Few states, Warfel said, are so fortunately situated as Ohio.

And in addition to the big storage plants already referred to, Warfel said there are 800 jobbers and marketers virtually all of whom have bulk plants with storage facilities for up to 1,000,000 gallons, each.

He also said that the 12,800 filling stations in the state would average in minimum storage capacity of 1,000 gallons or 12,800,000 gallons total.

Figures on the state's peak storage, refining and pipeline capacity will be ready in a few days, Warfel added.

Gov. John W. Bricker said today that Ickes had made no appeal to him to curtail gasoline consumption. Recently, state treasurer Don H. Ebricht estimated that gasless Sundays would cost the state at least $10,000,000 tax revenue a year.

FOOLS TOWNS—HALFWAY, Ore.—(AP)—"Thars" gold in them thar mountains" around Halfway and the residents, man and boy, know it, both placer and quartz, in its natural state.

And for that reason, they were slightly embarrassed recently as they fingered a number of "nuggets" left as security for loans by a stranger who had just started work at the mines. He said he would redeem them on his first pay day. When he failed to appear, investigation revealed the nuggets to be phony.

'HOT' MUSIC

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., July 16.—It was bound to happen some day in this era of "hot" music.

Firemen were called when a "juke box" in a Bakersfield tavern started throwing off smoke while it was being played.

But the firemen wouldn't admit it was the "hot" music. They said the heat came from an overloaded power unit inside the instrument.

Bombing Raids Not So Deadly—If You Know Your Dwellings

City people living in modern steel and concrete apartment houses have little chance of being injured during bombing raids if they keep out of top and ground floors, says the British Society of Actuaries now making a study of bombed areas in England. The most dangerous place to be during a raid is in old brick and stone buildings that are not steel reinforced. An explosion may convert these dwelling into a murderous shower of fragments.

Since enemy bombers concentrate on areas where munitions factories, mines and industrial plants are located, the society advises dwellers in these vicinities to pack up and get out quickly. The safest place to live in war times is out in the country, preferably in a house with a green roof (serves as camouflage) and situated on the opposite side of a hill from which the bombers usually fly. They'll pass your house before realizing it might make a target.

FIERCE WOLVES KEPT AS PETS

Pennsylvania Physician Keeps Strange Animals as His Hobby.

KANE, Pa.—(AP)—Lobo wolves, one of the most ferocious predatory animals which roamed the western plains, are just pets to Dr. E. H. McCleery.

With the only surviving Lobos on a government - launched extinction program because of the heavy raids on cattle and other stock in the west, Dr. McCleery expects his present stock of 30 wolves doubled by births. However, that will mean merely more mouths to feed, as the wolves are bred primarily as a hobby and not for commercial purposes.

With the extinction of buffalo, former prey of the Lobo, which frequently killed "for the joy of killing," the wolves transferred their attack to cattle at a cost of thousands of dollars to ranchers. The United States and Canadian governments co-operated in a program to eradicate the wolf from his range—Texas to Canada along the eastern side of the Rocky mountains.

As a result of that program, Dr. McCleery believes he has the only surviving Lobo wolves either at large or in captivity. He handles the mature wolves himself, and has been bitten on several occasions. Ordinarily, this offense means death for the animal but Old Idaho, a special pet, has sent his master to the hospital three times.

Old Idaho and his gaunt fangs were brought into service as the model for the famous "wolf at the door" during depression days. This wolf's individual record for damages to cattle herds before being captured exceeds $50,000.

With all their ferocity and blood-thirstiness, the mature male Lobo nevertheless is chivalrous. Although they will cold-bloodedly tear each other apart in their lust to kill, they will not attack a female.

BETTER SHOPPER

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP)—The modern American miss is a better shopper than her grandmother ever was, according to Mrs. Helene Doderidge, administrative assistant to the consumer counsel of the U. S. department of agriculture.

Mrs. Doderidge told the home economics division of the Florida Vocational association here that adaptation of home economics studies to everyday applications had provided American young women today with more knowledge about daily shopping, selecting materials and getting the most out of the budget, "than women ever had before."

Coal Displaces U. S. Gasoline In Tokyo Vehicles

PEKING, China.—(AP)—Chinese in Peking learn with misgiving of the successful use of North China coal in operating Tokyo's municipal buses, since the system of coal gas is to be extended to taxis also. With American gasoline out of the question, Tokyo turned to charcoal burning motor cars and buses only to be faced by a charcoal famine late last year.

After tests, it has been announced that 100,000 tons of coal from Shansi Province of North China will suffice to run all motor transport in Tokyo for a single year.

While the Japanese state that they can ship this Chinese coal to Japan profitably, Chinese see themselves paying the bill. Before the outbreak of Sino-Japanese hostilities nearly four years ago, good Shansi coal was available in Peking at ten Chinese dollars per long ton.

PILOTS START TRAINING AT AIRPORT HERE

11 From Two States Gather Here For 17-Week Course In Flying Flights.

Eleven air-minded youths from several different walks of life yesterday began a 17-week aviation course at Mansfield's municipal airport which will graduate them with flight instructors' and commercial pilots' licenses, enabling them to serve the U. S. army for pilot instruction and transport service.

All of the pilots, two coming from the Mansfield area, gave up positions in private employment to take their advanced courses. Their former occupations range from a paymaster to a electrician to an airlines chauffeur.

The students come from Michigan and Ohio to Mansfield with civilian pilots' licenses. Most of them have been housed in private homes until barracks can be erected. James R. Harrington, airport manager, announced yesterday that work on the barracks will begin this week and should be completed within three weeks.

Room for 20 students will be supplied in the barracks which will be located near the state road park on the west side of the airport.

Included in those taking the advanced flying course are Wilbur H. Shafer, 527 West Fourth street, Westinghouse worker; Charles E. Hench, Shelby, electrician; Robert Lee Stimly, Lakewood, automobile service worker; Earl L. Emmer, Canton, electrician; Richard T. Keegan, Cleveland, mechanic; Loren M. Dietz, Canton, air transport; Benjamin B. Barnes, Jr., Canton, Mich., American Airlines chauffeur; R. C. Bryant, Saginaw, Mich., paymaster; John J. Cox, Marshall, Mich., airplane mechanic; Thomas K. Mowatt, Detroit, Mich., salesman and William F. Zahn, Saginaw, Mich., auto mechanics teacher.

Instruction of the advanced class is being directed by Sam Christy, former flight instructor at Army Air Corps, and Russell Peters, formerly of Deland, Fla.

Classes the first few weeks will be restricted to acrobatics and the maneuvering army planes. Later cross-country and transport duties will be outlined.

Charles Stimly, one of the instructors at the port, is expected to return tomorrow from Trenton, N. J., with one of the new Luscombe trainers being purchased by Harrington for the course. A new Howard cabin plane will arrive next week. Harrington has also ordered two acrobatic planes, another cabin plane and another instructor craft.

smoothing out several rough spots on the port's runways. The city has agreed to spend between $400 and $500 for the improvement.

Mansfield is the only airport in the state being used as a base for training military flight instructors and transport pilots. There are only seven bases of the type in the country.

Pilots graduated from the school here will be used by the government either to train air corps pilots or to ferry materials or men for military purposes.

REJECT SHOTS

ENGLEVILLE, Colo. — (U.P.) — When the Colorado health department ordered the 100 residents of Engleville to be inoculated for typhoid fever the citizens took the first injection and then refused the second.

"We don't need the serum," they told Las Animas county nurses who were ordered to make the injections following nine cases of typhoid fever.

At a mass meeting the town-folk voted against the second treatment.

Indian Warned 'War Dance' Day No Longer Exists

These realizations were impressed upon Frank Cortez, 42-year-old Indian, who prepared to make Stockton his residence for the next six months after being jailed when police intervened in his heated argument with a woman. Police, who by chance noticed the commotion, described the scene as being like a "war-dance," with Cortez playing the leading role.

NOW A 5-DAY WEEK FOR A&P EMPLOYEES THROUGHOUT THE NATION

Stores Will Be Open Six Days A Week As Usual But No Employee Will Work More Than Five Days

Two months ago this company tried the experiment in a few eastern states of a five-day work week for our retail store employees. Now we are able to announce that we have adopted the five-day week as our national policy.

- This, we believe, constitutes the first five-day week and the shortest general working hours of any major retail food establishment.
- This shorter work week will be in effect before Labor Day in A&P food stores in thousands of communities throughout the country. It will be extended as far and as fast as possible. Frankly, however, we must recognize that in a few states and a number of cities the introduction of this policy may be delayed or even prevented by state or local labor regulations or local agreements.
- A&P food store employees affected by this policy will work only five days a week although stores will be open six days a week as usual. Their weekly salaries will not be reduced by their shorter work week. Our policy is to continually improve working conditions and salaries as evidenced by the fact that during the past year alone we have been able to make actual wage increases and to pay added compensation to our employees in an amount totaling more than $4,000,000.
- Many people are utterly astounded at the new low prices for quality foods in A&P Super Markets. They are getting so much more and better food for the same money that they wonder how we can do it. Frankly, it is simply because A&P Super Markets represent a new, more efficient, more economical way of distributing food to the public.
- This new, shorter week is still further evidence that the tremendous savings you can now make in buying groceries, meats and fresh fruits and vegetables in the great, new A&P Super Markets are made possible by savings through efficiency and that no part of these savings comes out of the wages of our employees.

For many years it has been a source of pride to us that we have been able generally to maintain the highest average wage scale and the shortest general working hours in a field where long hours have been traditional. Since we first cut the work week eight hours in 1916, there has been a long record of further reduction in hours, increases in wages and vacation schedules.

Because our new low prices have resulted in increased patronage, we have been able to further reduce our operating expenses and increase our efficiency and still further improve the working conditions of our employees.

At the same time thousands of families will testify that they buy their foods today at lower average prices in A&P Super Markets than in any group of stores in the highly competitive retail food field. Today, when you spend a dollar in one of our stores, more of that dollar actually purchases food and less of it goes to cover distribution costs and profits than ever before in the history of the food business.

There is no conflict between low prices and good working conditions. We have achieved both by constantly improving methods of bringing food from producer to consumer, cutting out waste and unnecessary handling operations along the distribution route.

The new A&P Super Markets have made possible savings so astounding that we would not have believed them possible five years ago. This year we are paying the highest wages for the shortest work week in the history of the food business and yet our customers throughout the country will save more than $50,000,000 on the food they buy as compared to the lowest prices we could charge on the basis of our own operating expense only five years ago.

We are more than ever conscious, in these unusual times, of an obligation to make every possible contribution to the American standard of living. We know that we are making it possible for the average family to buy more good food for the same money, or to buy the same quantity of food for less money.

We are happy to tell you that you can enjoy these savings with the knowledge that the people who serve you in our retail stores are sharing more than ever before in these good things. This means a better standard of living for you and for those who serve you.

This plan will necessitate slight adjustments in store hours which will be announced locally. We respectfully ask our customers for their cooperation and assistance in making this new schedule a success.

Braves Run Win Streak to Seven as Byers Blanks Sox

It's a dizzy brand of baseball they play down in the Eastern North Carolina league, and that you have on the word of Staff Sgt. Byron Hoffer of Fort Bragg, N. C., son of Brainerd Hoffer, 137 West Dickson avenue, Mansfield.

Looking over Brainerd's shoulder as he reads his latest letter from his sergeant son, you'll soon be leaning on that shoulder for support as you go through the account of the 11 to 4 victory scored by Albemarle at Fayetteville.

Read on, neighbors, while I thank the Hoffers, father and son, for filling this column today.

"I'm pretty disgusted," says Sgt. Hoffer, "with the way the Indians have been acting, so took in a big league game, the Eastern North Carolina, with Albemarle beating Fayetteville 11 to 4."

"I don't know when I've seen such a dizzy exhibition in my life."

"It was the first time I ever saw a side retired on three pitched balls, each being a foul behind the plate, felled by the catcher."

"One player laid down a bunt with a man on first. It landed so close in front of him he had to jump over it to run to first. It rolled parallel with the foul line and looked like it was going to roll out. As the batter had a good start, the pitcher, who ran in to field the ball, let it roll."

"About six feet from the bag it hit a stone, or something, and bounced fair. By this time the runner from first was standing flat-footed on third."

"Once the catcher dropped the third strike, and the batter ran for first. The catcher overthrew to first, the runner taking second. The right fielder recovered the ball, and overthrew past the shortstop, and the runner went to third. The left fielder, in attempting to recover the ball, kicked it against the left field fence and the runner went on home. A home run on a strike-out. Tie that one!"

"All of Albemarle's runs were driven in by one batter, who knocked three home runs, not more than 10 feet apart, twice with the bases loaded and once with two on base."

"The fourth time he came up he drove one square at the pitcher, who stood about five feet four. It was so fast that when he snagged it, it sat him flat on the back of his pants. Without getting up, he twisted and threw from a sitting position, doubling a man off second."

"The first baseman jumped up on the running board of a parked car, reached over the

Crowd of 60,000 to See Yanks

Defeat of Tribe Fails To Hurt Gate Tonight.

CLEVELAND —(AP)—Baseball enthusiasm shot to a season high today with thousands of fans scrambling for tickets to Cleveland's premier night attraction—a clash with the incomparable Yankees.

New York's 10 to 3 rout of the Indians yesterday apparently dimmed interest little and a throng of more than 60,000 was forecast.

Club officials reported all 32,000 box and reserved seats at the stadium had been gobbled up and that 40,000 general admission tickets would go on sale four hours before the game, scheduled at 8:30.

Early police details were assigned to the stadium area in anticipation of a rush for the remaining duets.

Manager Roger Peckinpaugh reiterated that Southpaw Al Smith would face Joe DiMaggio & Co. Lefty Gomez was the New York choice.

The Yanks will be after their 17th decision in the last 18 games while DiMaggio seeks to hit in his 57th consecutive game.

"We aren't out of this race yet by a long ways. If Smith wins tonight and Bob Feller tomorrow, our chances will look mighty rosy again," Peckinpaugh said.

The Yankees blasted Al Milnar and Joe Kraskus for 11 hits, including Charley Keller's 20th home run, to take the first tussle of the three-game stand and put the Indians six games behind.

Buddy Rosar batted in five runs with a single and two doubles while DiMaggio got a double and two singles.

Albee Donald meanwhile scattered eight Cleveland hits, Jeff Heath's 13th homer in the sixth being the loudest blow.

The Yankees rode rough shod to their eighth triumph in 11 games against the Indians this season and increased their first place margin to six full games.

On the other hand the Dodgers, who had a chance to battle up the senior circuit just as completely, were raided 7-4 by the St. Louis Cardinals and had their lead cut to three games last night.

top of it, and fielded a foul.

"The Fayetteville center fielder, who was built about like Bill Hipp, more or less, ran about 50 yards and made the most impossible shoe-string catch I think I've ever seen."

"They sold warm Coca-Cola and stale peanuts, and there was a guy sitting in front of me dressed just like Cap Zimmerman would go to a ball game: white sport shirt open at the neck and a sailor straw hat. He looked like Jim, and even rooted like him."

Pub-Links Kid Beats Champion

Bobby Servis Defeated In Ohio Amateur Joust.

TOLEDO —(AP)—Sixteen of Ohio's top-flight simon-pure golfers, survivors of 64 qualifiers, squared off today for third and fourth round combat in the 38th state amateur championship.

With four-time Champion Bob Servis of Dayton on the side lines, the annual bunker battle loomed as a wide open affair.

Servis, winner in 1933, 1936, 1939 and 1940, fell before one of the fee course youngsters yesterday in the second round, Bob Pollex, 21-year-old Toledoan, beating him one up.

While the tourney settled down to even keel, Ohio golf association officials moved to set up a fool-proof method of making match play pairings.

Their decision came after Robert Romberger of Toledo, prey of the state publiclinks association, protested against the pairing of two Columbus fee course stars, Bill Podolski and Dick Rhyman, as first round opponents. The O. G. A. admitted a mistake might have been made in the pairings and declared they would install a plan by which such occurrences would be eliminated in the future.

Schedules for this morning's matches were:

R. Pollex, Toledo vs. R. A. Stranahan, Toledo.

J. Lewis, Toledo, vs. T. Earls, Cincinnati.

Dan Carmichael, Columbus, vs. Maurice McCarthy, Cincinnati.

Marshall Carlson, Toledo, vs. Eddie Meister, Cleveland.

Frank Stranahan, Toledo, vs. T. Cloran, East Liverpool.

Robert Campbell, Granville, vs. Allan Loop, Toledo.

William Gilbert, Cincinnati, vs. John Wood, Cincinnati.

Tom Whiteway, Cleveland, vs. John Meirer, Toledo.

McCarthy has won the title three times; Carlson, Wood and Meister have gone to the finals.

Gilbert is the 1940 Big Ten king, and Campbell, at 17, is the youngest player in the list. He's also the tallest—six feet three.

HURLS NO-HIT BALL BUT LOSES GAME

DENVER —(INS)—The medicine man of baseball is using loaded dice, Jim Cleghorn, Indian pitcher for the Denver Bears Western league club, was convinced today.

Cleghorn hurled a no-hitter against the Sioux City Soos at Iowa City last night, but came out on the short end of a 1-0 score. Two walks, a sacrifice and an error combined to provide his downfall.

All-Stars Win Over Millers

Too Much Pitching Stops Minneapolis Club, 6-1.

MINNEAPOLIS —(AP)—Star dust glistened brightly on historic Nicolet park landscape today while groundskeepers glumly while the field back in shape for routine American association play.

The brilliant coating was scattered last night by the pick of seven association clubs assembled into one mighty crew to dazzle Minneapolis Millers 6 to 1 in the eighth annual league classic.

The game was played before an overflow crowd of 11,000 and such baseball big men as Judge Kene-saw Mountain Landis and President William Harbridge of the American league.

The All-stars justified the choices of league baseball reporters. They slugged for 13 hits, played errorless ball and cut off many hits with daring fielding.

Too much enemy pitching ruined the Millers. First it was Ray Starr, 15-game winner for Indianapolis, who knocked off the first six men batting in the game. Then came fireballer John Grodzicki, Columbus, to blank the locals through the fourth, fanning four of the six men facing him.

Next, Lefty Koslo, Milwaukee, kept the locals handcuffed through the seventh, Harry Brecheen, Columbus, got into a jam in the eighth, with men on first and third and with none out but fast fielding and heady hurling stifled the rally.

He yielded Fabian Gaffke's homer in the ninth and a following double by Otto Denning ended the game by a strikeout.

Bring Schedule Up To Date For Two Weeks.

Kept from playing regularly scheduled matches by the July 4th holiday, and by the exhibition match last Friday between Helen Detweiler, nationally famous pro, and Thelma Linster, state publiclinks champion, the News-Journal women's golf league has been playing its matches as they could be arranged, and yesterday brought its schedule up to date.

Golden Russell scored five points in the two matches to stretch its league lead to four games over Meder Recreation.

Highlight of individual play was the 39 scored by Florence Adams in her 37 round, the first time she had broken 40 since learning to play the game.

Stretches Mound Record to One Run in Last 27 Innings of Toil

JUST the hottest ball club in the Ohio State league today are those Mansfield Braves, and the most torrid twirler, on the record, is the Braves' Chuck Byers.

Owners of a seven-game winning streak, the Braves are just one-half game behind the league leading and first-half champions, the Green Sox of Fremont.

Last night Byers and his Tribe teammates blanked the Emerald Hose 2 to 0 at the Fairground before a crowd that was remarkably big considering the uncertain state of the weather.

It was the second shutout victory for Chuck in his last three games, while in 27 stanzas of toil on the tee he has permitted just one lone run.

He had to defeat another hot hurler last night in gaining the edge over big Jim "Stacy" Stasaitis, the Fremont right-handed chief of the artist who had notched 11 victories in 12 starts before his mates fell before the puzzling slants of Byers.

Storm clouds were hanging low over the Fairground and it began Braves at Home. Friday—Fostoria. Sunday—Findlay (two games).

Sprinkle just before game time, but that didn't keep a crowd of 400 away from the yard.

Although hits were evenly divided, six apiece for the two clubs, there was never any doubt that Byers was the master after Toth led off with a fluke triple in the first inning and died on third.

Toth's legitimate single through short went to the fence for three sacks when Bill Salem missed a valiant try for a shoe-string catch in center field. But Odds tapped to Harry Siebert at first, Eagan fanned, and Acting Manager Freddy Gerken bounced out, Byers to Siebert.

Fremont threatened in the fourth when Eagan singled with one away, and Gerken got a scratch hit when Bob Testruth and Eddie Mutyryn got their signals crossed and permitted his pop fly to fall between them. Both runners advanced on a passed ball, but Byers fanned Sprys and got Ramsey on a pop-up to short to end it.

60,000 Crowd To See Yanks

In the first four innings Whitlow Wyatt did not allow a hit and his mates raced away to a 4-0 lead.

Then the pitching ace of the National league collapsed. He gave up two runs in the fifth and in the sixth permitted four successive singles before being removed and the Cards went on to score five runs and send ten players to the plate in a triumphant rally.

With the spotlights in both leagues turned on the struggles of their leading teams, there wasn't much for the other teams to do except tend to their own knitting.

The New York Giants staved off the Cincinnati Reds' threat at third place in the senior loop by whipping Bucky Walters 7-4.

Pittsburgh and Boston divided a doubleheader, Jim Tobin pitching the Braves to a 4-1 triumph in the first game and then the Pirates rallying with seven runs in the seventh inning of the nightcap to win 13-5.

The Chicago Cubs captured a 9-5 decision over the hapless Phillies in their night game.

In the other American league games the Boston Red Sox edged out the Chicago White Sox, 2-1 and the St. Louis Browns overpowered the Philadelphia Athletics, 11-2.

Supplies, Farm Tools and Town Tavern Cop Wins.

Heavy scoring highlighted the Commercial league tilts last night as the Athletic Supplies sank the Farm Tools 14-4, N. and W. Coals defeated Isaly 16-5 and the Town Tavern squeaked by Humphreys 11-9.

Scott led the Supplies stickmen with three out of five as every batter on the club connected for at least a single. Gramly and Spayde sparked the loser's attack with two bingles apiece.

An eight run rally in the fifth inning scoring half of the Coal heaver's 16 runs highlighted the Isaly debacle. Lucas led the winning sluggers with three out of five. Miller, Russels, and Christman paced the losing stickmen.

Stepping out to a four run lead in the first inning Humphreys saw the edge fade away to one run in the eighth and disappear in the smoke of a three run rally in the last of the ninth as the Town Tavern club pulled up to cop a 11-9 victory.

Kallensee attributed the record entry to the association's new, centrally located course here. Last year's matches, held at Dayton's Wright field range, attracted a field of 60.

Lone Eastern Tennis Star Faces Pack.

NEW YORK—(U)—The young giant-killers of California tennis have found one representative of the east who refuses to be pushed around.

Ladislav Hecht, one of Czechoslovakia's ranking netmen a few years back, came to America with Mrs. Hecht on a business trip in 1939 and landed in New York on the same day that Adolf Hitler's army marched into their homeland. They've been here ever since, and Laddie already has taken the first steps toward becoming an American citizen.

Today Hecht is the only easterner left in the round of eight in the New York state clay court tennis championships. Yesterday Gene Mako and Jack Kramer, both of Los Angeles, gained the quarter finals by beating two other Californians, Bill Canning and Charley Mattman, respectively. They joined Frankie Parker, Ted Schroeder and Ted Olewine, also of California, and two mid-western interlopers, Defending Champion Don McNeill of Oklahoma City and Seymour Greenberg of Chicago.

One other Californian, Robin Hippenstiel of San Bernardino, tried to advance with them. But Hecht flattened him in straight sets, 6-0, 7-5.

Today Hecht faced McNeill in a quarter final encounter and the dimes for "Charlie Root day" and wished they had been allowed to give more. . . . Ted Williams, who averages hitting four balls into the stands during batting practice when the Sox are at home, figures he costs the club 152 apples a year. (But Tom Yawkey can afford it.)

BUCYRUS BANK JOINS FEDERAL RESERVE GROUP

Farmers and Citizens Bank and Savings Company Admitted to System.

BUCYRUS—H. E. Kiess, president of the Farmers and Citizens Bank and Savings Company, today announced the admission of the bank to membership in the Federal Reserve System. This is the eleventh Ohio state bank to be admitted to membership so far in 1941.

Of the ten banks located in Crawford county, six are now members of the Reserve banking system. In the case of national banks membership is mandatory; with State banks it is optional. Under the federal law, state banks retain all their charter and statutory rights subject only to provisions of the Federal Reserve law which might be in conflict therewith.

The four Bucyrus banks serve a trade area estimated to contain approximately 20,000 people. There are eight manufacturing plants of substantial size in the city, producing a variety of products such as rubber sundries, steel castings, metal stampings, locomotive cranes, road machinery, steel grave vaults, and incubators. Railroad shops of the New York Central railroad also contribute substantially to the income of Bucyrus wage earners.

The Farmers and Citizens Bank and Savings Company was organized in 1907, with a paid-in capital of $50,000. On December 21, 1915, the capital stock was increased to $100,000, and has remained at that figure since that time. It ranks third in size among the local banks, and has total deposits of approximately $1,400,000.

Most of the directors of the bank have been identified with it for long periods, some of them since the date of organization. Mr. Kiess, who was elected president in 1937, has been a director ever since the bank was incorporated, and has been the active officer in charge of operations for more than twenty years. Mr. T. M. Kennedy and Mr. E. C. Heinla, likewise have been directors since the bank was organized. Other directors include John P. Weyer, S. G. Angene, J. E. Faulkner, W. P. Fralick, J. E. McLaughlin, Samuel Ulmer, and H. G. F. Walther.

Other officers of the bank are: H. E. Kiess, president; T. M. Kennedy, vice president; John P. Weyer, cashier; J. G. Schiefer, assistant cashier; all of whom are directors, with the exception of Mr. Schiefer.

URGES PROJECT

RICHMOND, Va., (U.P.)—The war department has been asked to dredge the James river channel and maintain it at standard depth between Richmond and Hopewell, Va., after several boats had been grounded in the stream within a few weeks.

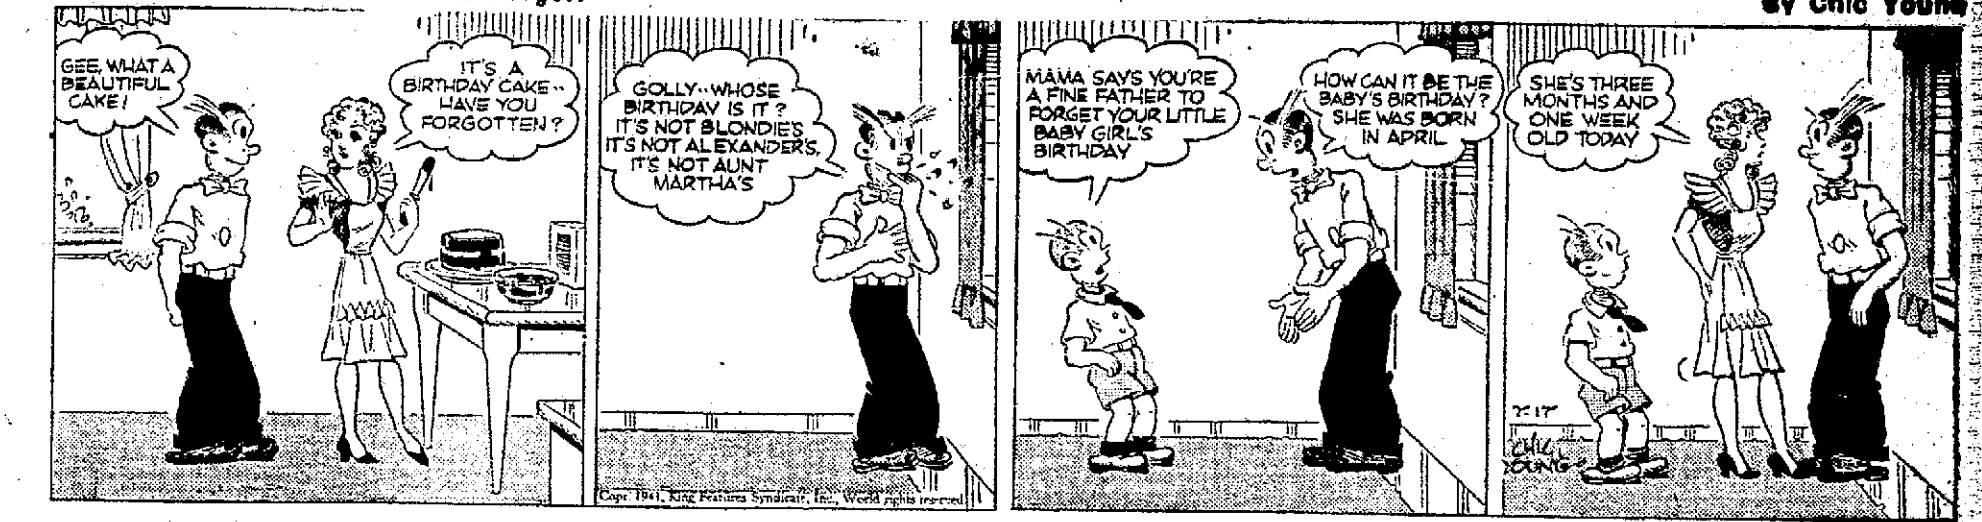

Gamble Bowers, Richmond public works director, also is asking the city council for $30,000 to dredge the turning basin at the deepwater terminal here. Bowers said silt had been filling the river channel slowly and was hindering navigation of large vessels.

SELLING WANES BUT LEADERS STAY BEHIND

Fail To Make Plus Column as Russian, Jap News Causes Timidity.

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK—Selling waned in today's stock market but few leaders were able to get back in the plus column. The list was a trifle shaky at the start and fractional declines predominated near the second hour.

Early buying timidity was attributed partly to reports of Nazi thrusts in Russia, the latest Japanese cabinet shift which might mean anything, and tax doubts.

Interpreted hopefully was the Dun & Bradstreet estimate that the country's bank clearings in the week-end Wednesday exceeded those of the same time a year ago by 18.7 per cent.

Holders of aviation shares noted forecasts that, despite defense mobilization of many planes, passenger miles flown by domestic airlines this summer were expected to top the previous year by some 20 per cent.
